Sorry to bother you, but I forgot to ask for one last thing...the rest of my meds. My Wellbutrin and Paxil were not among the medicines you sent with me.

Also, if you are going to be home this weekend after all, I would love to see the kids Sunday. I could pick them and some of my possessions up around 11:00?From: scottballock@yahoo.com

I'm sorry I changed you so much that you lost the nerve to do something as romantic and daring as driving to me and standing outside my door and smiling when I open it. That cute, sly smile of yours that says, "look what I did." That's exactly what your smile says so often.

It hurts me to know what you really want deep down but to know that you have so little faith that you can't quite pull the trigger. That you think about it, but you can't find the courage to turn the key in the ignition and begin the drive tonight or tomorrow morning. You know that this is a golden opportunity. And that we missed out on two others recently - the wedding and the clambake. You know the leaves are changing here, that being here would revive old feelings in you. I know you. I know you too well. You are too much like me.

You know that you want to see Steve and Melissa and hug Lauren. and be her mother figure now that Melissa is dying. You know that would be fulfilling and that no one could do it better than you. That you could change Steve and Lauren's lives by inserting yourself. And that that is part of your calling.

your old life back, but just the good parts. You want to be able to trust that only the good parts will return. And that they will stay.

You want this ugliness to go away. You want Tommy and Summer to be happy and secure again. you want to be happy again. You want your comfortable vision of your future to return. you want your first and only true love to return. You want to never return to this ugly place again. You want me to whisper gently in your ear every day, tell you how beautiful you are, how much you mean to me. Slay your dragons. Protect and comfort you.

And I will.

These three weeks have been enlightening. Life altering. I have never been more clear headed, certain of what's important, what I need to do to be the man you deserve, to be the man you married so long ago. I have so much confidence. So much love. It's why I am ok with you moving on if that's really what would make you happy. Because I have changed, matured. Miraculously. I will be the one leading the family to church every Sunday now. Barking in a jovial manner for everyone to get out of bed and get their dress clothes on. Then introducing us to everyone at church. Then taking us to breakfast afterward to discuss as a family the message power heard.

Part of you wants this to all go away, just like me. Spend the thousands of dollars not on attorneys but on your ring. Love again, the right way. Listen to my daily compliments. Hear my story of rebirth. Visit Melissa with me to see the horror of death and know why I will never do anything but love you right and protect you.

Part of you even wants to put the kids in the car this very moment and drive overnight to me. Because they will sleep well and you are a night owl. And you know I would cancel my presentation tomorrow to spend the entire day with you. I would drive the kids to richmond while you slept in the bed, on the spot I made warm for you. I would come back to Indy with food for you, serve you in bed, massage you. We would go clothes and ring shopping in Castleton. Y need something nice to wear to see Carrie Newcomer and you left Morgantown in a hurry.

I know you are a romantic at heart. So am I. Its why we lasted so long. It's why I stopped by Beck Chapel and Then went into the Union to inquire about reserving it for next June. It's why I went ring shopping tonight in Castleton and put a hundred dollars down on the most beautiful diamond I found. It's why I bought half a dozen cards at Greetings.

It's why part of you is tempted to drive the kids to Richmond tomorrow instead of to school. And then drive to me so we can go to a nice restaurant and talk. Walk along the canal. Listen to Carrie Newcomer while holding hands and crying. Then spend Saturday at the IU football game, walking on campus, sneaking into Reed Hall to see where we met, then taking a picnic dinner to Oliver Winery and kissing on the lawn by the pond.

You are a hopeless romantic like me. You have hardened your heart but part of you wants to defy that and give in. Taste the sweetness again. Listen to me whisper in your ear that it will never fade.

About traveling to Chicago and New York together? About reuniting not just with me but with all of our old friends and enjoying their company again?

About even snuggling with my mom on the couch? She is ready to come up. She misses you.
